

Plate 12: Dead camphor laurels controlled amongst native vegetation at Rocky Creek Dam. Source: T.Scannon.

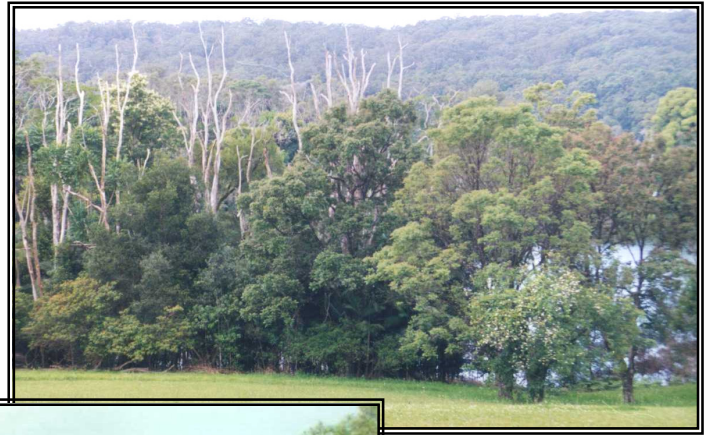

Plate 13: Camphor laurels invading prime agricultural land near Bellinggen. Source: T. Scanlon

Plate14: Camphor laurels forming part of a wildlife corridor. Source: B. Scott.

Plate 15: Camphor laurels infesting roadsides in the Clarence valley. Source: T. Scanlon

Plate 16: Undercut streambanks infested with camphor laurel. Source: B. Scott

